

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

- Brian Clark

Reflecting on the past quarter since the last Journal it occurs to me that, as President of this great association – I don't seem to do much! All of the committee – particularly our Executive Officer who works diligently and tirelessly on all manner of organisational matters, and of course, our Publications Officer who continues to prompt me mercilessly to stay on the ball – do their things and leave me with little choice but to relax, put my feet on the desk and await the next Journal. Such is the life of a President with a great support team.

I missed the 5th Australian Karst Studies Seminar at Wellington in February, despite the best of intentions in getting there, and the feedback from it has been extremely positive. I know I will be kicking myself for being able to get to the Cave Guides "Gabfest" either. What I will not be missing is ACKMA Inc. AGM in June. For those of you who can get there (put it in your diary now – June 16 – 18), I'll see you at Buchan. For those who can't, let's stay in touch via our Journal and the Web. Cheers for now!

P. S.: Congratulations Mulu on its impending World Heritage nomination, and good luck to you Dave Gill – I think life for you is about to get very interesting indeed!
